

Blockchain Working Group

Revised Table of Contents (3/18/2020)

Preface, Introductory letter (signed by Calderon, Hertzberg, Crittenden and Richardson/Lee?)

- I. Executive Summary
- II. Introduction
 - A. Legislative charge and statement of need
 - B. Working group process and approach to recommendations
- III. Blockchain and its Defining Characteristics
 - A. Fundamental shift from centralized control
 - B. Authentication and fraud mitigation
 - C. Development of technical standards
 - D. Efficiency and friction
- IV. Considerations for Appropriate Application
 - A. Decision tree or matrix: When is blockchain appropriate?
 - B. Ethical considerations
 - C. Information technology systems, data architecture and cybersecurity
 1. Data sources, reliability
 2. Digital ID and identity management
 3. Cybersecurity: managing security and risk
 4. Privacy infrastructure
 5. Financial and personnel cost of implementation and operations
 6. The mechanics of adopting new technology
 7. Standards and interoperability
- V. Potential application areas
 - A. Vital records: birth, death, marriage
 - B. Health records
 1. Records management and data protection
 2. Patient choice and control
 - C. Supply chain
 1. Food and agriculture
 2. Pharmaceuticals
 - D. Property
 1. Real estate
 2. Vehicles and parts
 3. Insurance
 4. Firearms
 - E. Utilities, natural resources: Energy, electricity, carbon
 - F. Finance, payments & commercial business
 1. Welfare and entitlement programs
 2. Taxes and revenue
 3. Remittances
 4. Banking

- 5. Business permits and licenses
- G. Justice & civic participation
 - 1. Chain of evidence, video testimony
 - 2. Voting, elections records, campaign finance
- H. Education & workforce
 - 1. Academic institutions
 - 2. Credentials: degrees, professional certification
- VI. The Role of State Government
 - A. Developing appropriate regulations
 - B. Recommended amendments to California statutes
 - C. Fostering a welcoming business environment
 - D. Working with consumer advocates and other stakeholders
- VII. Recommended roadmap
 - A. Pilot studies and use cases
 - B. Readiness matrix
 - C. Future research directions
- VIII. Appendix
 - A. Select resources
 - B. Survey responses